- Can a contractor still perform any petroleum related project tasks if they do not specifically have a petroleum category contract? In particular, what if you are working on Brownfields-like site assessment projects with old petroleum USTs? Or if you already have started other types of petroleum sites for specialized services?

RESPONSE: Categories are separated according to RI-DEM regulations. Accordingly, a contractor solely approved for Category 1 cannot perform work under Category 3 Petroleum assessment and remediation or Category 4 CERCLA Assessments. Work relating to Regulations for Underground Storage Facilities used for Petroleum Products and Hazardous Materials will be given to a contractor approved under Category 3.

- If we are responding to multiple Categories, should each Category be submitted under separate cover, or should the multiple Categories be separated with section dividers under one cover?

RESPONSE: Separate cover, submittals for each category should be thought of as separate contracts and are to be completely stand alone submittals. This includes a complete proposal as indicated in Section 4, SF330 application, resumes, cost form and reference materials.

- If we are responding to multiple Categories, should Section D (costs) for each Category be submitted under a separate cover, or should the multiple Section D's be separated with section dividers under one cover?

RESPONSE: Separate cover, submittals for each category should be thought of as separate contracts and are to be completely stand alone submittals, not one submittal with sections for each category. This includes a complete proposal as indicated in Section 4, SF330 application, resumes, cost form and reference materials.
